But every true prophet who wants to live among you is worthy of his support. So also a true teacher is himself worthy, as the workman, of his support. Every first-fruit, therefore, of the products of wine-press and threshing-floor, of oxen and of sheep, you shall take and give to the prophets, for they are your high priests. But if you have no prophet, give it to the poor. If you make a batch of dough, take the first-fruit and give according to the commandment. So also when you open a jar of wine or of oil, take the first-fruit and give it to the prophets; and of money (silver) and clothing and every possession, take the first-fruit, as it may seem good to you, and give according to the commandment.

Didache 13:1-7

Money and the Church

Managing First Fruits

The management of money is a challenge for each of us and, increasingly, it is a challenge for our churches as well.

How do we make decisions about money? How do we decide what belongs to God? How do we get a grip on immediate and future needs?

These questions will be addressed by our three workshop leaders for our own budget, and for the church budget.

Terry Parsons will help us explore a variety of means to be good stewards of one’s own assets.

Jerry Keucher will share his widely read notions about transformational stewardship in joyful thanksgiving to God.

Phyllis Jones will cover the many and varied issues facing congregations as they struggle with being good stewards of their church’s property and funds.

Don’t plan to just listen and take notes! We will have the opportunity to share our questions, answers, hopes and fears as we learn from the experts and from each other.
